Flock has been deep in conversations between Police, Government, and components of the general public. I just completed an interview with WILX speaking to our Flock Operations. I received this article from IRW addressing the backlash.

The Martin Luther King Diversity Committee, in partnership with the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce, Jackson College, the Jackson County Intermediate School District, and members of the Jackson community, invites you to Challenge Day.

Dear Community Member,
We warmly invite you to serve as an Adult Facilitator at our upcoming Middle School Challenge Days—a powerful, one-day experience that helps students build empathy, break down social barriers, and create a more connected school environment.

What is Challenge Day?
Challenge Day is an interactive program that uses engaging, high-energy activities to address issues like teasing, bullying, peer pressure, racism, and social isolation. The goal is to increase self-esteem, build positive peer support, and eliminate all forms of oppression in schools.

To make this event impactful, we need one adult for every four students. Adult Facilitators stay on-site the entire day, arriving 30 minutes early for orientation and remaining 30 minutes after for a debrief. No previous training is required—just an open mind, a caring heart, and a willingness to participate.

Your role as a community leader, parent, educator, or professional is essential. When students see trusted adults showing vulnerability, compassion, and support, it helps shift school culture in powerful ways.
